Every loaf of bread you buy carries 52 separate and distinct taxes. Naturally they are small since the retail price of bread is seldom over a dime.

County school officials believe that a ten per cent increase will be shown soon in enrollment of Palm Beach county schools. Year after year our county schools grow. More and better buildings will be necessary to care for the youngsters.

Governor Sholtz has proclaimed the week of October 11-18 as Human Service Week. The week has been set aside to acquaint the people of Florida with the "social needs" of that part of our citizenry who are in need of public assistance.

John L. Leonard, newly appointed county school superintendent is a busy man these days. Mr. Leonard is receiving the wholehearted co-operation of teachers throughout the county and the new term is getting ready to start.

A concerted effort will be made by Democratic county officials to get out the vote in primary. We can remember one primary election when the voters were taken to the polls because they thought a certain candidate had the election in the bag.

This week brings the announcement of another new packing house. The Pope-Johnson company will start at once to erect a house at Pelican Lake. Officials of the new company hope to have it ready for operation when the season gets under way.

The Palm Beach Times offered its readers something new in newspaper style this week. The paper was departmentalized from stem to stern and stories of like nature were grouped under large heads. The style is unique but makes the life of a reader much easier.

Brokers in this section are making preparations to start business in car lots by the middle of October. Growers are anxiously awaiting the first shipment in order that they may learn what the market is going to do. Naturally, every grower is hoping for a price that will net him a profit.

A ray of sunshine comes in the morning mail from an advertiser. He says: "We are pleased with results obtained from our newspaper advertising in your columns. Each week we see new faces in our store and we attribute their visits to the weekly messages we send them through your paper."

Tonight marks the opening of the 70th ball season in the Lake region. Boys of Everglades, who play under the Pahokee banner, will meet the Stuart aggregation in Pahokee. The kick-off is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. and the game is being shown in the coming game and tonight's opener should draw a big house.

Packing houses are being renovated and grading belts are being set up in order that all will be in readiness when the first beans are picked. The hum of grading belts means hundreds of employees and hundreds of employed men in the Lake region. Merchants will smile as they snap into high after a summer of waiting.

When the Pahokee football team trots onto the field tonight for the opening game of the season that aggregation will show the spectators what the word "grinder" will wear this season. New uniforms have been bought for the boys and the new uniforms carry the school colors of blue and white. Their flashy uniforms will show up fine under the lights on the Pahokee gridiron.

SAFETY COUNCIL LISTS AUTO ACCIDENT CAUSES

The six principal causes of auto accidents, according to the speed limit law, are: (1) excessive speed, (2) failure to stop at red light, (3) failure to stop at stop sign, (4) failure to stop at yield sign, (5) failure to stop at stop sign, (6) failure to stop at stop sign.

This report was made by the National Safety Council in the Accidents Act bulletin.

THE DIGEST GOES ASTRAY

The Literary Digest, which has been remarkably successful in forecasting election results and the trend of public opinion on national questions, faces the hardest job of its career in heralding the outcome of the forthcoming presidential election.

Already there are reliable signs that the Digest poll is out of line with the ballot box. The official ballot box has just furnished strong evidence to that effect. Immediately after the voters had gone to the polls Monday the Digest announced returns from Auburn showing 133 for London, 74 for Roosevelt, a majority of nearly two to one. The official ballot box count for the same town gave Governor Brann, democratic, 4,143 to 1,714 for Senator White in a contest which was generally acknowledged to reflect the national issue. In the same city Lewis O. Barrows, the republican candidate for governor, won by 4,458 to 3,126 for the democratic nominee. This is the same which the Digest poll shows to be nearly as indicative but a four to three margin at the ballot box is a far cry from the two to one of the Digest poll.

In Westbrook, Me., the Digest proved to be even further off. Those marking their star votes about the time of the election were taking place turned in 60 for London to 23 for Roosevelt, another two to one showing. However, Brann carried the city by 2,581 to 1,551 in the race for senator and Dubard, the democratic candidate for governor, also won by 2,391 to 1,809 for his republican opponent. If the Digest is as far from the ballot box in other states as it clearly is in Maine the latest total count of 152,360 for London to 88,812 for Roosevelt would be subjected to a heavy discount and suggests that the famous presidential election will come out very decidedly the wrong answer. It will be recalled that the Digest has received a good deal of luck in past polls, errors compensating each other so that several mistakes added up to approximately the right total. This time around this time are all on one side and, for example, in overestimating the London vote as now seems probable, the errors could well make the Digest far out on a limb. LEISURE

Solemn thinkers very learnedly about the Age of Leisure which is about to be drawn on our restless heads, and wonder if the ordinary man will be able to use his leisure wisely. Their very choice of words gives them away. For while the ordinary American may be no mental giant, he does have the sense to know that a good time out of his leisure is doing all right. The wisdom of the ages could do more for him.

During his vacation season, the American has an unlimited choice of places to go and means of getting to them is almost invariably delighted. He can tour New England, sprawl on the beaches of the Florida coast, or he can, look into the parks of the West or East, climb any one of the great mountains, or he can camp in the Great Smokies or the Rockies, fish in the wilderness of the arms of the sea, or dance in the ballroom of an ocean beach hotel.

He can harass his tender limbs in the sandy or stony beach, or he can smooth his soul on the veranda of a beach house in the Bahamas. And as he does these things, he gets a kick out of life which shows that no one ever needs to tell him a thing about the way to use his leisure.

Through depression and boom, one tendency is increasingly evident these days—more and better playgrounds for everybody. And this tendency is bound to increase more rapidly for a good many years to come. The playground for school, have been making this vagabondage which is becoming rapidly one of our most valuable possessions. Palm Beach Post.

ments extending as long as thirty-six months, are still in operation. Loans are available up to $2,000 for the modernization and improvement of homes, and up to $50,000 for hotels, apartment buildings and other large structures, he said. "While the privilege of instituting such loans under the FHA plan will be withdrawn soon it will have no bearing on the long range program of building, or buying new homes with monthly payments running as low as 20 cents."

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

Cleveland: As this is written, the worst storm in years scheduled to strike the Atlantic Coast in the neighborhood of Cape Hatteras. However, a six-column headline in glaring black type screams out from the evening paper "Florida Warned of Hurricane" and carries an Associated Press dispatch datelined Jacksonville stating that the storm was in mid-Atlantic and had turned toward the coast expected to strike Carolina and Virginia. But the news came from Jacksonville, the weather bureau's hurricane warning headquarters, and so unfortunately Florida gets the blame again.

Another hurricane is expected to hit Cleveland next week. A "Human Hurricane" made up of 20,000 eighting men has composed the American Legion. While property owners along the Atlantic Coast in the storm area are taking steps to protect their property, the hotel keepers and business men of Cleveland, who are counting lustily on the "come" signs, are nevertheless taking no chances for the American Legion Hurricane has left considerable damage in its wake. In the past—Hotels are removing all furniture from their lobbies and everything that can't be nailed down is being tucked away in the cellar or attic.

National Commander Murphy, however, says that the storm is OUT at the Cleveland convention and claims the Legionnaires have grown up. Every hotel in the city is sold out. You cannot get a room anywhere. Even in the surrounding towns accommodations are mighty hard to secure and all indications point to the American Legion convention being the largest in the history of the organization. It seems the boys have money, the bonus helped, then some more are working today than was the case a year or so ago.

The outstanding event will be the gigantic parade on Tuesday when it is expected to require from ten to twelve hours for it to pass a given point. Florida will be well represented in that parade with units from all sections of the state. Pretty Princess Evelyn, drum major of the colorful World War Veterans, will be the first to receive considerable publicity in local papers while plans are being made to feature Florida units in concerts and on radio programs from the Florida exhibit. The Hand Shell, the Marine Theatre and Gasland, during the convention. All of which will help just that much to impress the good people of this section with the dominance of Florida.

Things had quieted down after Dave Frost a week ago but the arrival of Mayor John W. Aldrich at Jacksonville, Florida's "Brass Band" mayor, gave us another break and Florida took the spotlight again.

Jack Frost of Jacksonville, with his Forty and Eight team, is due here for the "Brass Band" and his outfit is one of the finest in the legion ranks. They can be depended upon to highlight Florida through out the entire convention.

Then the Miami boys have never been a bit hushed in the matter of the "Brass Band" and they are the millions who live in the street and pack the grand stadium don't hear from the Magic City. It will be the first time, and it is a surprise, for one bit to see these boys step in and capture the first prize again. It's become a kind of a habit with them.

With forty-eight states out to attract attention during the convention, Florida is in a unique position for we are here on the ground, we have the contacts and the belief we are making. The most of it Florida boys and their own headquarters on the exception grounds. There is the only state in the country that is the most popular in the eyes of the public. On top of that, George Clements and I have made a number of radio contacts during the past few weeks that insure our getting every possible break in both the press and on the radio. The national avenues of publicity must justify be credited to the Florida exhibit for it has not been for our participation here we would not enjoy the advantages we have. If the close of the exposition, October 12, in the neighborhood of Cleveland, the plan will have checked through the gates, and this is PAID attendance only. At least 90 per cent of these folks visited our exhibit for it is the most popular in connection with the entire exposition and the most popular in the entire world. As the state of Florida, the counties and cities every inch of work we are doing here, for the people who will journey to our state as a result of this exhibit and the publicity it has generated, every track and corner.

POULTRY IMPROVEMENT PLAN IS RESULTING IN DISEASE-FREE FLOCKS

Poultry is non-universal farm enterprise. It has been prominent for hundreds of years. Progress from time to time, but even now the enterprise as a whole is open for improvement. There is still room for advancement, particularly along lines of disease control and breeding.

The progress is being made there, too. The National Poultry Improvement Plan has been in operation for a year this September. That it seems to have found the keys to success is borne out by the fact that it has been adopted in 21 states, including Florida.

Based upon purely voluntary participation, the plan aims to improve the stock of baby chicks through the use of disease-free breeders and hatcheries. In plan itself, including poultrification, control, and sanitation. It looks to improve egg production through breeding and reduce losses among chicks through poultrification.

Under the rules and classifications, almost every poultry producer is enabled to take part in the program. There are four classifications of flocks, ranging up to Register of Merit, and poultrification must meet the requirements of one or the other of the four.

Poultrification control is one of the principal aims of the plan. This disease has plagued the industry, causing tremendous losses in young chicks where infection is not prevented. The poultrification plan is divided into three classes: poultrification, poultrification, and poultrification. The breeding flock is tested and given one of these ratings. If the poultryman wishes to avail himself of the plan, he must first be a member of the National Poultry Improvement Plan.

Primarily, the National Poultry Improvement Plan is set up for breeders, flock owners and hatcherymen and it allows participants to use the birds of the ratings in advertising so that purchasers may be assured of what they are buying. They can judge the quality of chicks purchased before they are bought.

Dr. D. C. Glines of the State Livestock Sanitary Board, who has charge of the program in Florida, reports that many Florida poultrymen are participating in this season, and that flocks are being tested as rapidly as possible. As the program advances, more flocks should become better quality birds, and should contain better quality birds.

Character Revealed By Car Driving

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. The American Automobile association asserted that the best guide to a man's character is the way he drives his car.

"If a prospective bride," said Burton Marsh, director of the safety and traffic engineering department, "really wants to know her future husband's mind, let her ride with him through a traffic jam. She'll learn things."

A half mile through traffic horns, screeching brakes and traffic policemen, he said, will bring out a man's character.

A violent temper. Nervous. Tendency to fatigue. Timidity. Manners. Sportsmanship.

Marsh explained, "It is quite true," that a man's character is revealed in his office and home, yet a little tilt with traffic may reveal the real man. Without going into the psychological reasons behind it, Marsh said driving seems to stimulate the "lower" side of the "devil" more than other types.

His tips to flunies were: The man with a bad temper blasts his horn, makes faces, and other motorists and swears at pedestrians.

Short quick looks on the horn and raising of the motor are signs of nerves.

Not keeping up with the pace of the traffic and minding are indications that a man is easily irritated. The third person gets too far to the side of the road and tries to pass by failing to keep his place in a line of cars.

Marsh said that a man who is yielding the right of way indicates that a man has bad manners. Recognizing the rights of the fellow in the slower, older automobile shows that a man is a good sport.

What are the tips for prospective bridegrooms? he was asked. "We'll go into that some other time," he said.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. G. Lawton Sims entertained Wednesday with a birthday party in honor of her son Buddy's fifth birthday anniversary. The little guests spent the day and lunch was served on the lawn. Many interesting games were played by the little tots under the direction of Mrs. Sims. Those present were: Billie Jerigan, Patay Geiger, Yvonne Lee Fraser, Paul Bennett and Maurine Goolbsy.

TACKY KID PARTY

The Canal Point Epworth League held its monthly social Tuesday evening at the Canal Point Methodist parsonage. The social was a Tacky Kid Party. The guests were given balloons and lollipops as they entered. Games that were both tacky and childish were played with Sarah Everett in charge of the games. The refreshments consisting of cookies and punch were served by Dorothy Masson assisted by others.

All of the costumes were good but the judges finally decided Catherine Taylor as the tackiest and Melba Sims as the most childish.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith spent Friday in Miami attending to business.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lovorn returned to their home Sunday night after spending a two weeks' vacation with friends and relatives in Okeechobee, Clewiston and on the East Coast.

LET'S DON'T KILL! OR HURT A CHILD!

School Begins Monday, September 21, 1936
The following pledge is suggested for all motorists in the County:

1. I will not pass a school bus while it is loading or unloading.
2. I will watch for little children crossing streets and give them the right-of-way.
3. I will drive slowly in the vicinity of all school grounds and playgrounds.
4. I will report all flagrant traffic violations to the authorities, regardless of who the offender may be.

Adherence to this pledge will make Palm Beach County a better place in which to live.

"WHERE FRIENDS MEET IN PAHOEE"

Miss Celia Hill returned to her home in West Palm Beach Monday after spending the week and with her aunt, Mrs. H. C. Graham.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Gaines and children, Ann, Penn and Jane, have returned to their home in Pahoee after spending the summer in Palm Beach, where they had a cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hooks, Sr., and Mrs. J. D. Hooks, Jr., and Duncan Hooks of Yonkers, Fla., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Coleman Sunday.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. K. Vile of Miami spent Sunday night in Pahoee. Dr. Vile is presiding elder of the Miami District and held the first quarterly conference at the Methodist church after the Sunday night service.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cochran are in the district meeting to be held in Pahoee December 8. Preceding the conference Rev. Vile gave the highlights on his trip abroad and then preached a short sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Cochran is ill at her home this week.

Mrs. L. W. Armstrong entertained at her home Sunday night in honor of Mrs. O. B. McClure, the occasion being her birthday. The guests assembled earlier in the evening and surprised Mrs. McClure. Several tables of beans were played with high score going to Mrs. G. B. Ramsey, second high to Mrs. W. G. Smith and low to R. J. Simonson. Later in the evening the hostess served a salad course to Mrs. O. B. McClure.

Mrs. A. R. Rice, Mrs. B. Bowers, Mrs. H. C. Graham, Mrs. R. J. Simonson, Mrs. C. A. Shive, Mrs. Frank Friend, Mrs. E. E. Cochran, Mrs. Ed Howell, Mrs. G. B. Ramsey, Mrs. Charles Perkins, Mrs. J. A. Scouts gave their good turns for the past week, after which they gave and commented upon their good turns for the past week.

The Scoutmaster gave good reports of their good turns. Of course the committee were able to tell of some large, good turns which they did, while the boys' good turns were little ones; but the young Scouts will be able to do larger good turns when they grow up to be as large as the Scoutmaster. There are many boys of Scout age in the community who should be getting the advantages offered in Scout training.

Elmer Maxson and Jack Fowler had the best record for attendance at Scout meetings last school year, with a total of 27 meetings each. Francis Cross and J. W. Jones had the next best record with a total of 26 meetings each. Charles Jones is the assistant Scoutmaster of the local troop. Rev. Bennett and J. M. Ellis are committee men serving with the three mentioned above.

Light can be OUTGROWN!

Like an Old Suit of Clothes!

The light that was good enough to see by last year may not fit you needs this year—many more than you old suit of clothes will fit you wardrobe after you have gained twenty pounds.

Lighting research laboratories have proved that 20 out of every 100 school children, 40 out of every 100 students of college age and 60 out of every 100 adults suffer from defective vision. The human eye needs enough light to do its work properly and the older you get, the more light you need.

Eyes can become dulled by use and abuse—they can be worn out by poor light. Seeing makes one constantly changing and various lighting intensities are needed in the different "jobs" your eyes must perform. Improper lighting causes headaches and even causes light to cause better health.
